

Copyright and Disclaimer Notice

1. Copyright

iNet International Ltd. ("iNet") owns the trademark displayed on this website. All logos on this website may not be used without prior written authorization from iNet. Any information or material obtained through this website may be subject to copyright and/or other intellectual property protection. Without the consent of iNet, downloading, storing, copying, printing, distribution, transmission, or use of the information from the company may constitute infringement. Without the prior written consent of iNet, any part of such information or material may not be modified, copied, stored in a retrieval system, transmitted (in any form or by any means), copying, distribution, or used to create derivative works in any other way for commercial or public purposes.

2. Disclaimer

In the extent permitted by law, iNet hereby expressly disclaims about following various representations, warranties or liability (whether express or implied):

- (a) any information, goods or services provided or obtained through this website;
- (b) provided through this website or obtained the quality, use, accuracy, timelines, applicability or use of any information, goods or services ;
- (c) quality, standards, merchantability or universal, regardless of whether this website will not be interrupted from viruses;
- (d) the use or through this website any consequences arising; or
- (e) any loss arising from hackers

3. Limitation of Liability

Any person or any party to use or through this website, or other pages of information obtained any information, goods or services received or hyperlinks should own risk, within the extent permitted by law, iNet is not liable under any circumstances for overview of hyperlinks to the content, accuracy and expressed in this and other such information and advice provided by others. iNet is not responsible for the investigation of this and other information to identify, monitor or endorse. iNet is not responsible for any direct, indirect, incidental, special or consequential damages or compensation involved (including, but not limited to, any financial losses within the scope permitted by law on the use of this site, any loss of business, profits, opportunity, such loss deposits, revenue, data, goodwill, equipment, software or viruses, or damages caused) for the information on this site. iNet is not responsible under any circumstances without any responsible person or any party, regardless of tort law, contract law, transactions or other methods (including but not limited to, negligence, breach of contract, defamation or infringement of intellectual property rights) for any loss or damages. Within the scope permitted by applicable law, iNet is not responsible for this website or any accuracy and completeness of available information. Using this website and the information on this site, you irrevocably and unconditionally accept and agree to be bound by the disclaimer notice.

Privacy Policy and Personal Information Collection

The Privacy Policy of iNet International Ltd. (iNet) comprises policies and practices in the collection, use, sharing and protection of personal data of customers. iNet may update or revise this policy in the future. Such changes will be published on the company website. (Please note that this statement prior to revision from time to time without prior notice, you should regularly check the latest version.)

1. Company's commitment

The company is committed to the proper handling of personal information in order to protect customers' privacy. The company guarantees the collection, use, retention, disclosure, transfer policies and codes of practice, security and access to personal data used are consistent with Cap 486 Laws of Hong Kong ("the Personal Data (Privacy) Ordinance." called the "Ordinance"), as well as the provisions of the relevant codes of practice and guidelines issued by the Privacy Commissioner for personal Data from Hong Kong.

2. Personal Information Security Statement

The company will use a variety of encryption techniques via the Internet transmission of your personal data to ensure that only authorized personnel of the company can access the information. Internet-based nature of the operations, the Company cannot guarantee absolute safety data transfer. All personal information is kept strictly confidential obtained from our website users, in addition to the use of firewalls and other sophisticated technical equipment, the company also offers other features and strict security measures to protect the company's systems, information and data, to avoid any accident, vandalism or damage.

3. Enquiry

Should you not wish to receive the Company relating to the other categories of products / services direct to send promotional information, or do not want the company to disclose, transfer or use your personal information for direct marketing purposes above, please call our Customer Service Hotline 35021188, or by fax to number: 81610012 Data Protection Officer.